Iowa Guns Blast Tokyo Area

Clouds of smoke and flame burst from the muzzles of the mighty U. S. S. Iowa's 16-inch guns as they send tons of destruction over the Japanese mainland to strike targets within 80 miles of Tokyo itself. The Iowa led the sea attack on the Jap mainland.

Raids K.O. 374 Jap Ships

By HAMILTON FARON

GUAM, July 17 (AP)—A daring American naval task force steamed to within 80 miles of Tokyo tonight (Japan time) and bombarded industrial targets around Hitachi on the heels of an eight-hour raid by 1500 planes from American and British carriers in the area of the Japanese capital. Adm. Nimitz announced the bombardment while it was still under way only a few hours after he reported carrier planes had knocked out 374 Nipponese vessels and 129 locomotives in their week-end sweep over northern Japan.

Leaflets Offer Japs Way Out

By LEIF ERICKSON

GUAM, July 17 (AP)—The newest propaganda leaflets being dropped on Japan stress that the Japanese can have peace with honor, even under unconditional surrender.

Bearing pictures of a dozen Japanese military leaders and addressed to Japanese military leaders, the text of the pamphlet is based on President Truman's V-E Day speech telling the Japanese they could end the war with unconditional surrender.

These new leaflets, bearing President Truman's picture are being dropped at the rate of 1,000,000 daily on Japan by Superfortresses.

"Your future lies in your own hands," says the message to Nipponese military leaders.

"You can choose between a wasteful, unclean death for many of your forces, or a peace with honor."

The leaflet next says: "Military leaders of Japan: Can you convince the people of Japan you are able to defend the soil, waters and sky of Japan?"

"These questions were asked by Harry S. Truman, president of the United States, in a message directed to the Japanese people. Did you not in the past solemnly declare that you would defend Guam, Tinian, the Philippines, Iwo Jima and Okinawa, the last barricade on the way to Tokyo? Did you not promise in the past that our planes would not violate the skies of Japan?"

"Were you able to keep these promises?"

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17 (AP)—Premier Kantaro Suzuki went to the imperial palace at the unusual hour of 5 p. m. today to submit a report to Emperor Hirohito on "the general administration," Tokyo radio announced.

Heretofore Suzuki's predecessors, Premiers Hideki (The Razor) Tojo and Kantaro (The Tiger) Koiso, have been ousted after military setbacks.

4 Nazi Subs Still Missing

LONDON, July 17 (AP)—Four German submarines on the admiralty's list of U-boats known to have been commissioned before V-E Day still are not definitely accounted for, an Admiralty spokesman said today, but he expressed belief they probably are at the bottom of the sea.

The submarine U-530, which surrendered to Argentine authorities at Mar Del Plata recently, was one of five known German submarines which were not surrendered. Records list the remainder as "doubtful sinkings."

The theoretical time limit of their endurance expired last month, however, and the unexpected appearance of the U-530 causes no official anxiety over the whereabouts of the other four.

The new battleship Iowa with her blazing 16-inch guns led the bombardment group in the closest approach of any U. S. naval task force to the Japanese capital. A curtain of steel from the Iowa and supporting cruisers and destroyers hammered at Hitachi's vital copper smelter and aircraft parts plants.

Broadcasting from an American battleship only six miles off the east Honshu coast, Joe Heinlein, NBC correspondent, said the warships were pouring shells ashore at the rate of 50,000 pounds a minute. He added: "If the fuses which can be seen on shore are any indication, the American Third Fleet is doing its job well. So far there has been no retaliatory gesture from the enemy."

It was the third naval bombardment of Japan's vulnerable coastal industries within four days. The Iowa presumably led the bombardment ships in close to shore for the night attack against the industrial plants which lie about a mile off the coast.

In a week, Adm. Halsey's Third Fleet has ranged from Tokyo to the northern end of Japan and back again, smashing with bombs and shells vitally important steel, munitions and oil plants, shipping and rail transportation and air-dromes.

War industries were again the target of American naval guns as they were Saturday and Sunday when steel mills were shelled at Kamaishi and Muroran.

The communique issued during today's bombardment said: "Some of the most colorful battleships of the Third Fleet, including the USS Iowa with cruisers and destroyers, brought industrial concentrations in the vicinity of Hitachi on the east coast of Honshu under heavy bombardment late in the evening of July 17 (Japan time). The action is continuing."

The revised total of carrier damage last Saturday night and Sunday included:

SUNK—140 ships and surface craft, totaling 71,000 tons and including one small warship.
DAMAGED—24 vessels, totaling 58,000 tons and including 10 warcraft.

Eighty-four locomotives were destroyed, 45 damaged. Military installations, ammunition dumps, air fields, factories and transportation facilities were wrecked on northern Honshu and Hokkaido, northernmost island of Nippon to which the Japanese have been fleeing from Superfortress raids.

Thirty-seven Japanese planes were destroyed and 45 damaged. This is 10 under the previously announced total, but an increase of eight in the number destroyed.

This record damage inflicted despite extremely adverse weather such as has barred almost every American carrier attack on Japan cost the attacking forces 16 airmen and 24 planes. No U. S. ships were lost.

Other air strikes accounted for 42 Nip ships. A single Liberator sank or damaged 37, all two-master cargo carriers trapped southwest of Hong Kong as they tried to sneak along the China coast.

Chinese forces have occupied Monoway, in the northeasternmost corner of French Indo China and have infiltrated into the outskirts of Kweilin, former American air base city 90 miles northeast of recently captured Luochow.

Australian patrols slogged through southeast Borneo swamps toward the prized Sambodja oil field.

1st Big 3 Session Held With Truman Presiding

By DANIEL DE LUCE

POTSDAM, July 17 (AP)—The full dress session of the Big Three Conference was believed to have started this afternoon with the Pacific war unquestionably high on the agenda of world-shaping questions to be settled by President Truman, Premier Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill.

Tight secrecy hid developments, even an official announcement that the delayed meeting was under way.

Gen. George C. Marshall, U. S. Army chief of staff whose presence at the full dress opening of the Big Three conference would be essential, cancelled at the last minute his planned formal review of American troops in Berlin.

Premier Stalin earlier conferred with President Truman at the little White House.

The generalissimo, attired as a marshal of the Soviet Union, was accompanied by Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov. They were guests at luncheon of the President and Secretary of State Byrnes. The party talked for an hour.

BULLETIN

LONDON, July 17 (AP)—The Moscow radio said tonight that President Truman was presiding at the first meeting of the Big Three conference in Potsdam, and that it started at 5 p. m. today (10 a. m. eastern war time).

rounding the delayed start of the conference was heightened during the murky, cloudy morning by three mysterious explosions in the Russian zone of Berlin.

The two Soviet leaders arrived in Potsdam two days ago, it was disclosed. There was no explanation, however, why the opening of the conference had been delayed yesterday.

Churchill lunched with Sec. Stimson after entertaining Gen. Marshall, chief of staff of the U. S. Army, at dinner last night. Stimson's visit to the Pacific War were understood to have been given to Churchill.

Stimson arrived after touring the wrecked center of Berlin, remarking: "I feel as though I have done a distasteful duty."

The Russian appeared at Mr. Truman's residence at 11:50 a. m. with their official interpreter, V. N. Pavlov, and were greeted by the President's military and naval aides and then by Mr. Truman and his Secretary of State in the offices on the second floor.

Mr. Truman wore a brown lustrous suit and sat at the head of the table. The generalissimo's uniform was fawn-colored with silver-edged stars on the epaulets. He sat on the President's right. The luncheon was concluded at 2:45 p. m. The menu included creamed spinach, fried liver and bacon smothered with onions, baked ham, julienne potatoes, string beans, pumpernickel bread, jam, sliced fruit, cookies, mints, candies and cigars.

R.R. Coaches All Pooled For Troops

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—All railway passenger coaches today were placed in a pool to be available for use by the armed services.

Announcing the action, the Office of Defense Transportation said the result probably would be considerably less space on passenger trains for civilians.

The order in itself does not curtail civilian passenger service, but it establishes the machinery for the withdrawal of cars as required by the armed services. The order provides that all railway passenger, baggage and express cars, exclusive of Pullman sleeping cars, may be used for such purposes as ODT may direct.

The announcement predicted that demands of the armed forces under redeployment will reach such proportions that some regularly scheduled passenger trains will have to be suspended.

Asserting that travel "will become more uncomfortable than ever before," Johnson again took occasion to urge the public to avoid all unnecessary trips and predicted some "may find themselves unable to return."

The order, effective immediately, will remain in effect until the end of the war unless terminated earlier.

The pooling of passenger coaches followed Sunday's curtailment of sleeping car service, and indications were that additional Pullmans soon will be diverted to troop carrying.

Some 2500 sleeping cars are now in civilian service, but ODT expects an additional 1000 sleepers will be withdrawn soon.

Dutch to Free Own East Indies

LONDON, July 17 (AP)—Prof. H. A. Logemann, Dutch minister of colonies, today promised the Dutch East Indies their freedom under the royal house of Orange and said the Netherlands would forsake imperialism.

He called for volunteers for the Pacific war among members of the home guard in the Netherlands, in a broadcast over the Dutch radio.

New 3-Hour Raid on Kyushu

By Associated Press

Tokyo radio said today 60 Okinawa-based American bombers and fighters had raided Kyushu island for three hours this morning, striking at Kagoshima and Miyazaki among other targets. The attack began at 9 a. m., the broadcast said. Yesterday nearly 500 Superforts set fire to four industrial cities.

Damei said high explosives and incendiaries dropped by 190 Superfortresses started fires last night in Hiratsuka, Odawara and Chigasaki southwest of Tokyo, and in Numazu, Shizuoka prefecture.

Jap fighters reappeared yesterday over Nagoya and engaged two Jima Mustangs in a spectacular air fight. Forty Jap planes were knocked out. Other air strikes accounted for 42 Nip ships. A single Liberator sank or damaged 37, all two-master cargo carriers trapped southwest of Hong Kong as they tried to sneak along the China coast.

255 Flee Fire Destroying Big Lakes Steamer.

SARNIA, Ont., July 17 (AP)—The 360-foot Great Lakes passenger liner Hamonic, carrying 255 passengers, was destroyed by fire today with many persons injured and burned, but a clerk at the Canada Steamship Lines said "as far as we know no lives have been lost."

The clerk, J. H. Aitchison, said it was believed all aboard scrambled to safety after fire in the freight docks at Point Edward spread to the vessel. The docks were levelled. American and Canadian fire fighters joined to combat the flames.

A survey of Sarnia General Hospital, the Polymer Corp. first aid hospital and some private homes nearby indicated that at least 150 persons had been treated for burns and injuries.

The Hamonic, one of the largest passenger ships on the lakes, left Detroit last night on a cruise and was tied up at Point Edward, near the Blue Water bridge, which spans the St. Clair river, connecting Port Huron on the American side and the Canadian cities of Sarnia and Point Edward.

Sarnia's General Hospital was jammed with burned and injured, many lying on floors awaiting attention.

They told of panic on the Hamonic's top deck as the flames leaped from the burning sheds and developed that deck. Many escaped the flames by sliding down cables into the river.

Among these were a 72-year-old woman, who suffered burns on her hands.

Dr. J. O. Green of Detroit wrapped a life preserver around his 10-year-old niece, and tossed her into the water. Then he and his wife slid down a cable to safety.

Train Derailed At E. Taunton

TAUNTON, July 17 (AP)—Eleven cars of a 42-car freight train bound from Providence to Hyannis were derailed today, badly damaging the freight station at East Taunton and many of the cars, which burst open, spilling contents on the tracks.

New Haven railroad officials said a defect in the brake rigging on the tender caused the derailment. The locomotive, which remained upright, was rerailed and sent back to Boston.

Phyllis Brooks, M'Donald Wed

The secret marriage of one of Boston's most eligible young naval heroes, Lt. Torbert Hart Macdonald of Malden, famed Harvard half-back and much-decorated PT boat squadron leader, to Movie Actress Phyllis Brooks was revealed today by the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Seiler of Syracuse, N. Y., according to an Associated Press dispatch from that city.

Mrs. Seiler said the wedding took place June 23 at the Tarrytown, N. Y., home of Mrs. Alan Lehman.

The news took Boston by surprise as "Torby" was reported last fall as still romancing with "Boston's most beautiful blonde," post-debutante Polly Cotter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Cotter of Cambridge and Duxbury.

Polly was Torby's first love and his favorite companion during his football days at Harvard where he became a backfield star and captain of the 1939 football team. They were engaged in October of 1941 and the wedding was set for Dec. 27 of that year. On the day of the wedding, however, the ceremony was cancelled and a brief announcement made that wedding plans were deferred due to Torby's imminent call to the armed forces.

Gifts were returned and Polly put away her wedding gown and cancelled plans for the house they had already furnished.

When Torby returned to Boston last fall, after having been awarded the Silver Star and Purple Heart and having served for 17 months as commander of PT boats fighting in the Pacific, he was seen squiring Polly many times during his 30-day furlough.

But also last fall Louella Parsons reported from Hollywood that Phyllis Brooks had dashed East to be near Torby while he was coaching the Melville, R. I., PT football team.

The AP dispatch today stated he met Phyllis in Hollywood after his return from overseas.

Found vacationing at her parents' summer home in Duxbury the glamorous Polly tersely answered when apprised of the secret marriage:

"Sorry—but no comment, no comment whatever."

Torby, idol of Harvard during his football years, was also a crack sprinter on the Crimson's track team and the winner of a Rhodes scholarship. He is the son of Jack Macdonald, former Malden football coach.

Ex-Minister Awaits Ashes Of Slain Wife

As his wife lay murdered in Miami, former Army Chaplain Owen W. Eames of St. Mary's st., Brookline, today sought and offered consolation in long distance telephone calls with their three teen-age children.

Miami police, meanwhile, were preparing to serve a first degree murder warrant against a 19-year-old sailor, allegedly the slayer of Mrs. Ellamae Flynn Eames, 42, the wife and mother. Mrs. Eames' unclad and battered body was found yesterday on the ground in the rear of a hotel after it had lain there nine hours without discovery — until the sailor, according to police, remorsefully led them to the scene.

He was identified as S 1c William Wells Parker of Toledo, O.

Her husband, from whom she was seeking a divorce, expressed his sorrow at the tragedy of her death today. He added:

William K. Jackson, Boston Chamber of Commerce president, declared the measure "is an important forward step in Boston's maritime development."

"However, it must be kept in mind that much remains to be done," Jackson said. "It is sincerely to be hoped current interest in the port will not be allowed to recede."

Senate Kills Harbor Viaduct

The Senate, by a 16-16 rollcall vote, today killed a bill authorizing the city of Boston to construct a viaduct between Long and Moon islands in Boston harbor.

Sen. Leo J. Sullivan (D.) of Boston, opposing the measure, said the only result of approval "would be to make some contractor rich."

Sen. Robert I. Lee (D.) of Charlestown, said aged and infirm inmates at institutions on Long Island were entitled to fire protection which would be made possible by the viaduct.

Legislators Hit Hub Probe Order

Criticizing the order of House Speaker Frederick B. Willis for an investigation of Boston municipal affairs as "unfair" and "casting a stigma on the city," Boston legislative members of both parties today joined in opposition to his measure.

Willis, taking the floor for the first time in this session, declared it was the Legislature's "duty to find out if Boston is financially sound."

"There are 10,625 appeals from Boston real estate assessments pending before the State Appellate Tax Board and if only a portion of them are granted a tax rate of $50 would be small," Willis declared.

Willis said the Boston Finance Commission had made several surveys and filed reports "but nothing has been done about these reports."

"If there is nothing wrong in Boston, we would like to find out why there is such great opposition to this order," he said.

Stones for Circus Unidentified Dead

HARTFORD, Ct., July 17 (AP)—"Little Miss Number 1565" and her five companions in death, all unknown victims of the circus fire belated of July 6, 1944, will have their graves marked by headstones and a monument to be erected by the city of Hartford on a plot at Northwood Cemetery, Windsor, Acting Police Chief Michael J. The matter was decided at a meeting of the special police committee, said Godfrey, revealing that the committee had received money contributions from nearly half the states in the Union.

This fund will be placed in a Hartford bank and from it money will be drawn every year to buy flowers for the grave of "Little Miss Number 1565" on the anniversary of the fire.

"This practice will continue," Godfrey said, "as long as the money lasts or forever, if sufficient interest accumulates."

She Cheated Death

Death is forever lurking in the wilds of New Guinea, a land of strange beauty and constant danger where even the strongest must fight to survive.

But amazing Margaret Hastings, pretty little WAC corporal, actually thrived during 47 days in Hidden Valley, Dutch New Guinea, where no white person had ever been.

On an almost steady diet of native pig and wild sweet potato, she added 20 pounds to her trim figure. But the nervous tension of being snatched to safety in a glider and the long flight home cost her all her new weight and four more pounds besides.

Margaret Hastings has written her own thrilling story of those unparalleled days in Hidden Valley. Her "Shangri-La Diary" is one of the outstanding human interest stories of the war.

This almost incredible true story, rivaling the best in adventure fiction, will be brought to you exclusively by the Boston Sunday Advertiser and Boston Evening American beginning next Sunday, July 22.

Packed with drama, thrills and even laughs she found in the wilderness, each chapter of "Shangri-La Diary" is a worthwhile story in itself.

Hub Cops Hear Odyssey Of Rockland Runaways

A very innocent line of patter has 12-year-old David Hanson of North ave., Rockland, as he demonstrated today when Boston police asked him why he and his sister, Elizabeth, 6, had run away from home Saturday.

They were reported missing to Rockland police Saturday night. They were found today, forlornly sitting on a baggage rail under a South Station ticket seller's window.

"Saturday?" David reported wonderingly to the police. "Why have only been gone a day, we had $5 so we got on a train for Boston and went to the movies and ate, and stuff, and then we spent all our money and a soldier gave us $2 and we slept in someone's house last night and—"

"Wait," pleaded the police, "what soldier gave you $2?" "Can't remember," said David glibly.

"He was just a nice soldier," said Elizabeth.

They could not for the life of them remember whose house they had slept in, although they were certain it was someone they knew. "So this morning," ad libbed David, "I took my sister to the North Station and got some soap and water and washed her face and combed her hair, so then we got on a train."

"At the North Station?" he was asked.

"No, at the South Station," said David, "but it was the wrong train, but we got back to Boston and we didn't have any money, so I was going to get a job selling papers and then get tickets so we could go home."

The children were discovered here by Arthur T. Caldicott of Fossdale rd., Dorchester, a dry-goods house employe, on his lunch hour. He passed them on Summer st. and noted they were bewildered and a bit on the weary side. They were holding hands as they walked. A minute or two later Caldicott bought a Boston American and read a description of them. His suspects were none other. That fitted the description.

Caldicott turned sleuth, did a little astute trailing and found the small Hansons perched under the South Station ticket window.

2 Girl Cyclists Back After Night in Barn

Just for the love of horses, two little girls set out on their bicycles and vanished for a night.

But Justine Koppin, 14, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto C. Koppin, and Mary Bond, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Granville Bond, both of Woodcliff rd., Wellesley, wheeled safely home today.

They weren't available for comment, because they were put to bed—partly to rest and partly for mild punishment.

"They like horses. They like to talk to anyone who has a horse, that's all," said one of the parents.

It seems they went bike-riding as usual yesterday, and were in Weston looking for horses when they got dark.

They were tired and afraid to ride in the dark without lights on their bicycles, so they spotted a nice big barn in a field.

They hoped it was full of horses. There was nothing there but hay. Weary and disappointed, they just lay down in the nice hay to sleep.

Red Cross Girls Return From European Duty

Betty Cushing's Hair-Do Advice To Girls at War

A new coiffure—one that won't endanger her life—is one of the things socialite Betty Cushing of Groton will concentrate on before she faces another war.

Resting here a while before she goes to the Pacific after 30 months of laboring in Europe as a Red Cross worker, the dainty Miss Cushing told the Coast Guard Public Relations Office in Boston why there are times when curls are not just the thing.

"I was in Belgium on New Year's Day," she said, "and we managed to celebrate it by being strafed by Nazi planes. I can remember the time when I had my hair done up in curls during an air raid, and try as I might my helmet wouldn't fit on."

"But, believe me, I learned a lesson, and for my next air raid, I'll have a new coiffure."

Betty told her story as the Coast Guard-manned troopship Wakefield brought her back to the States, along with 6000 combat veterans home on furlough.

With her was Red Cross worker Julia Wall Gould of Evelyn st., Lynn, who served in Holland, Belgium, France and Germany.

"We both want to go to the Pacific. At least the Coast Guard gave us a six-day vacation on the way home before we think of the next war," they said.

Former Prisoner Of Nazis Home

Sgt. Vincent P. Mahoney, 29, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Mahoney of 115 Highland rd., Somerville, who was captured by the Nazis during the battle of the Bulge, last December, is home, enjoying a furlough.

Sgt. Mahoney enlisted in March of '41 and took part in the invasion of Normandy. He saw action in France, Belgium and Luxembourg as a member of the 630 Tank Destroyer group.

He was liberated by the Russians in April after being in two concentration camps for four months.

He is busy meeting old friends.

CAR DROP INJURES MAN

Daniel McNeil, 64, of Crescent ave., Dorchester, employed at a gas station at Eliot and Carver sts., South End, was pinned under an automobile which slipped down a lift today. He sustained serious injuries for which he is being treated at the City Hospital.

Girl, 4, in Coma, Rushed to Hub

In a coma since she was struck by an automobile several days ago, Dorothy Marino, 4, of Summer st., Somerville, today was rushed to Massachusetts General Hospital for possible brain operation.

Dorothy, one of three children of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Marino, was knocked down as she crossed the street in front of her home. She was taken to Somerville Hospital but failed to regain consciousness, so physicians ordered her moved to Boston.

Need a Home? Hire a Street Car

SAN FRANCISCO, July 17 (AP)—Here's the latest on the housing shortage:

Mrs. Minnie Wikman grew tired of seeing "no vacancy" signs every time she went house-hunting, so she went to the public utilities commission with what executives call the "idea of the year."

Wondered Mrs. Wikman: Why not take all the city's decrepit street cars (now decaying in grass-grown yards) and remodel them with kitchenettes?

She really got attention when she added that each of the trolleys should bring in a $40 monthly rental after conversion.

Lost Quantum Sailboat Returns

The 14-foot sailboat "Havana," missing since 6 o'clock last night from Quantum Yacht Club, pulled safely ashore at the southwest side of Long Island today after being lost in the fog.

Aboard were William Nordo, 30, of Glenrose ave., East Braintree, and Jack Powell, 17, of Front st., Weymouth.

B-29 Expert's Death Called Spy Murder

CINCINNATI, July 17 (AP)—Wright Aeronautical Corp. officials said they suspected "murder at the hands of an enemy agent" in the death in Chicago today of Arthur Joseph Sikora, 39, chief plant engineer who left here Monday.

They added, "with plans for the windup of the Jap war so far as B-29 engine production is concerned."

"There is no other way to look at it," declared Varley Young, head of the Lockheed plant's public relations department.

Sikora's body plummeted from the window of his 20th floor room after two trusted friends had left him, Young said.

"He was happily married, of sober habits and left here on highly important business," Young commented, adding that the plant had dispatched William Brisben, its security chief, to Chicago by plane, to assist the investigation.

"Chicago has a large oriental population," Young said. "Sikora had in his possession highly confidential and valuable production schedules and other data, including details of engine improvements. It would be information of tremendous value to the enemy."

Young said Sikora, a veteran of more than 15 years with Wright and its parent concern, the Curtiss-Wright Corp. at Paterson, N. J., was a project engineer of the original B-29 engines.

2 Sailors Guilty In Hotel Beating

George M. Caspar, 19, and Donald F. Koster, 18, sailors on a Navy ship berthed in Boston, were found guilty in municipal court of assault on George W. Dawson, 42, Manhasset, Long Island, N. Y., head of a high school English department, who was brutally beaten in a Boston hotel.

Judge Joseph T. Zottoli found Caspar guilty of assault with a dangerous weapon and gave him a suspended sentence of a year in the House of Correction and probation for a year. Koster was found guilty of simple assault and given probation for a year.

Hitler and Eva In Argentina?

WASHINGTON, July 17 (INS)

—A State Department spokesman said today the American embassy at Buenos Aires "naturally" would investigate published reports that Hitler and Eva Braun had arrived in Argentina aboard a Nazi submarine.

The reports said that the submarine had been discovered near Patagonia and later surrendered to Argentine authorities.

The undersurface craft was of latest type and known to be capable of journey from northern Europe to South America.

State Moves to Get Job Back for Lowell Veteran

In the first case of its kind in this state, the office of the Attorney-General of Massachusetts filed a civil action with the clerk of the federal court today seeking judgment for a Lowell war veteran to compel his former employers to re-employ him in the position he held before he was drafted.

The veteran, Arthur N. Herbert of Lowell, claims he worked as a driver for John F. Partelo, doing business as the L. & L. Transportation Co. of Lowell, before being inducted. He claims he was honorably discharged from military service Oct. 9, 1944, and applied for his old job on Oct. 10.

He claims he is still qualified to perform the duties of the position he formerly held but that he was given work as a helper, with resultant loss in earnings and accumulated seniority as a driver.

The company, according to the complaint refuses to rehire him as a driver. A court order is sought for his re-employment as a driver to comply with the Selective Service Act.

Human Pincushion Serves Seabees as Darts Target

By VERN HAUGLAND

YELLOW BEACH THREE.
Okinawa (AP)—There's a Seabee outfit here with more than its share of characters, including the first mayor of Winfield, N. J., and "Bruno the Human Pincushion."

Seabees (Navy Construction Battalions), don't have much occasion to use pincushions, so "Bruno" for the duration is serving more usefully as a portable, ever-ready dart game.

"Bruno" is Coxswain James H. Upton, a Wisconsin native and former millwright who has served with Seabee stevedore gangs on Guadalcanal and Okinawa. He was a star attraction in freak shows at the Chicago and New York world fairs.

"When we want to play darts, we just use Bruno," said his friend, Navy Lt. Edward Mackin, 38, of Elmhurst, Long Island, N. Y.

"We paint a mercurochrome target on his back, and then he lets us stand off and toss darts into it. He bleeds a little now and then because he's out of training, but when he's in condition he doesn't bleed a bit.

"He eats double-edge razor blades, chews glass bulbs and ever now and then wins a bottle of whisky by offering to eat the bottle's neck.

"He also will let us sew buttons onto his skin, anywhere on his body except his eyes.

"Doctors say he does it all by rigid self-hypnosis. Funny thing, though—when he shaves he cuts himself and bleeds as easily as you or I."

Congress UNRRA Probe Demanded by Rep. Dirksen

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—Rep. Dirksen (R.) of Illinois called today for a congressional investigation of the United Nations Relief and Rehabilitation Administration to answer a series of questions about the agency's operations.

One question, he said in a statement, is: "Why is UNRRA being investigated by British Intelligence?"

The others include: Why does UNRRA need more than 200 persons in Washington headquarters at salaries ranging from $5000 to $15,000?

Why are UNRRA employees bonded in a British rather than in an American company?

Why is it reported that the accounts of UNRRA are so "messy" that they cannot be audited?

Why do UNRRA food supplies appear in the black market in Athens?

Why were 200 tractors left on the dock in Greece for a long time when allegedly needed in the fields?

Why are other tractors being flown to Balkan countries in American planes by American pilots at great expense?

Why have so many capable men resigned from UNRRA?

Why is UNRRA and the military effort so uncoordinated that 1500 UNRRA employees should be wasting time at Granville, France, doing nothing and awaiting assignment?

B29 Collects Tin

GUAM, July 17 (AP)—The B-29s have brought back a souvenir from a town of the Japanese homeland—inadvertently.

It's a large piece of tin roofing, snagged on the wing of a Superfort piloted by Capt. Samuel B. Hanford, Saybrook, Ct., over Sakai, a suburb of Osaka. The crew ripped it to bits to provide souvenirs for all.

The 10th Air Force explained the bomber entered the intent's ly hot updraft from the flaming target just in time to catch the soaring roofing on a wing.

Truman Urges War Sales Czar

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—President Truman today asked Congress to reverse itself and place control of surplus property disposal in a single administrator rather than a three-man board.

The chief executive thus reopened a 1944 fight over disposition of billions of dollars' worth of war goods, noting that last year Secretary of State James F. Byrnes, then war mobilization director, had urged a single administrator rather than the three-man control Congress put into effect.

"I think experience has proved him right," Truman said.

Former Senator Guy Gillette of Iowa recently resigned as Surplus Property Board chairman and the Senate last week confirmed William Stuart Symington of St. Louis to replace him. Other members are former Gov. Robert A. Hurley, Connecticut, and Lt. Col. Edward H. Heller, San Francisco.

U. S. Italy Troops Land in Manila

MANILA, July 17 (AP)—The first American service troops shipped directly into the Pacific war zone from Europe without a trip home arrived here today to a wet, sloshy welcome after a month's journey from Italy.

The 425 veterans of Africa, Sicily and Italy landed on a muddy Manila dock in the damp dawn.

The first man ashore was Pvt. Joe Archilla of New York city. He ended one of the swiftest boom-crang trips on Army records. He left Newport News, Va., last April 5 for Italy, then turned around and headed for the Pacific.

N. Y. Newspaper Strike Ends

NEW YORK, July 17 (AP)—First deliveries of the city's metropolitan daily newspapers were made this afternoon as 1700 deliverymen ended a 17-day strike.

The strike had left 13,000,000 readers without their newspapers for the longest period since a nine-day pressman's strike in 1923.

Union members voted to end the walkout after their counsel, Louis Waldman, announced that agreement had been reached with the publishers' association of New York to submit the dispute to arbitration.

Principal point at issue was a union demand for publishers to finance a union welfare fund of 3 per cent of the payroll.

Murder

I have written all of them long letters."

One daughter, Mrs. Elaine Kalt, 19, a resident of Miami, is arranging for her mother's body to be cremated and the ashes sent here, the former chaplain said.

Another daughter, Joan, 18, is "several hundred miles from here," her father said, emphasizing he wanted to protect her from any embarrassment she might feel.

A son, Whitman, 15, is at a summer camp which the father took pains not to identify.

Eames said neither he nor the children had seen Mrs. Eames for two years and that she had been estranged from him more than five years.

Eames had held two Springfield pastorates before joining the Army as a chaplain in January, 1941. He first went to the St. Paul Universalist Church in May, 1927, resigning in September the following year to become pastor of the Unitarian Church of the Unity. Before that he had been pastor of the Grace Universalist Church in Rochester, Minn., and pastor of the Mayo Clinic there.

A graduate of Tufts College Divinity School in 1925, he had been an athlete and actively interested in athletics. His Army service took him to the Chaplain's School at Harvard, then to the 10th Infantry Combat Team of the YD. He did not go overseas, however.

His wife was the adopted daughter of the late Richard R. Flynn of Winthrop, who was Commissioner of State Aid for 25 years. During their stay in Springfield she was prominent in civic and social affairs as a member of several fashionable women's clubs. For a time she was an officer in the WACS. She had been a Red Cross ambulance driver in Miami while waiting for her divorce suit to be heard.

The 39-year-old sailor allegedly made a confession of sordid brutality, according to disclosures made by Miami officials. They quoted Parker as saying he had met Mrs. Eames at a hotel bar and had taken her to a room after having several drinks with her.

Later there was an argument during which she threw a beer bottle at him and he retaliated by throwing one which struck her on the head, knocking her unconscious, his reported confession continued.

The sailor was quoted further as saying he had fallen asleep and could not rouse Mrs. Eames when he awakened two hours later. Officials said he told them he decided to dispose of the body. They said he let it drop into the alley, then bundled her blood-stained clothing together and threw it to the roof of a penthouse.

Whether Mrs. Eames was killed in the hotel room, or was alive and was killed by the fall, is a matter Miami medical authorities are trying to determine through X-ray examinations.

Miami police said Mrs. Eames had planned to marry Warren M. Smith, 45, of that city as soon as she was divorced. They quoted Smith as saying he had been with her last night until 8:30. Smith's statement as released by the police was:

"Ella and a soldier who had known her in Boston and I were having a few drinks in a bar. The soldier and I decided we had enough drinks and went up to my room. We left Ella at the bar."

"I smoked until dawn and then went out looking for her. I called the jail to see if she was there because I knew she became difficult if she drank but the police told me they had never heard of her."

"Then I walked around some downtown and I overheard someone say a woman had been killed at the Senate Hotel. I asked to have the woman described to me. It was Ella."

Mrs. Eames had filed suit for a Miami divorce in December, telling friends she had gone there to establish residence for that purpose. She set forth in her papers that she had married Eames in 1925 and lived with him until 1942. She also said he had asked her to divorce him over a two-year period before she went to Miami.

Police said they found in her effects several letters from Eames pleading with her to proceed with the divorce, one containing the passage:

"I cannot understand your silence. How are you and what are you doing?"

The former minister said here, however, that when Mrs. Eames went to Florida she said nothing to him about getting a divorce. "But I was served with divorce papers last fall," he added. "All I knew was that she was in Florida."

3 Cuban Officers Killed in Plane Crash

WASHINGTON, July 17 (AP)—The Cuban embassy said today three officers of the Cuban army en route to Washington, were killed in an airplane crash near Charleston, S. C. yesterday.

The embassy was without information on the cause of the crash, or the exact mission of the officers. They were reported flying a Cuban plane.

Defeat of France Charged to Petain

By GEN. MAURICE-GUSTAVE GAMELIN

PARIS, July 17 (AP)—Since Marshal Petain's return, the question frequently is asked of me: "Did Petain interfere with your administration while you were supreme commander?"

My answer at once is simple and complex.

It is simple because, if it is a question of direct interference, I can say he never at least openly opposed me. Quite the contrary, he consistently approved of what I did.

But my answer also is complex—as complex as Marshal Petain's character. It weighed heavily on the destiny of France ever since 1919.

To be sure, Petain was the "victor of Verdun." But if his demands for reinforcements had ever been satisfied, the whole French army would have been squandered in that one defensive battle. We would not have been able to retake the initiative on the Somme. And it was the Somme, counteroffensive that freed Verdun.

It is simply that his is a defensive mentality, whereas Joffre and Foch were essentially offensive.

He only knows how to take negative decisions. He does not like to shoulder responsibility. When things go badly, it is always the fault of his subordinates.

His ideal from 1940 onward, as he himself presented it, would have been for France to do nothing more, turning on its back, playing the tortoise that withdraws into its shell or the ostrich that sticks its head in the sand.

The Germans quickly demonstrated to him that you cannot remain indifferent and, moreover, that as soon as you range yourself beside them it is to become their slaves. He submitted, only too happy to retain power. For his personal ambitions were very great.

So you would say to me: From what does his prestige derive? We tried some audacious but imprudent attacks at the beginning of the war and they cost us dearly. He presented himself as the chief conservator of the blood of our soldiers.

In 1917, after our April defeats when he became commander-in-chief of our northeastern armies, he understood how to restore the morale of troops who had suffered terribly. He was a commander who concerned himself with the soldier, with his well-being and—better still—with his spirit.

However, the following is an adage of our military laws: The offensive alone obtains decisive results. In battle you achieve decisive results only by demanding the maximum effort from everybody. There is no great victory without great sacrifices.

Marshal Petain's theories on "the power of the defensive" profoundly influenced the army, despite what my colleagues and I did to counteract them. They appeared to agree with our French pacifist policies.

Was it not Petain who, after 1919, allowed our whole industrial war potential to be liquidated, instead of carefully preserving it and modernizing it?

In fact, while he was commander in chief, did he not let the army fall asleep? As a proponent of the defensive, was he even logical in preventing the prolongation to northern France of the Maginot Line in 1937?

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—I am the wife of a serviceman now stationed in Iceland. Understand that I am entitled to make application for a commissary card. Is that true? How about the widow of a veteran? G. L., Dorchester.

A—At the present time commissary privileges are not extended in your case and also that of the widow.

Q—I was recently honorably discharged from the Army and am interested in going into a small business, but am faced with certain civilian restrictions and priority trouble on equipment and raw material for manufacturing purposes. Where might I get help and detailed information as to preference, etc.? E. J., Cambridge.

A—Make a list of the equipment and materials you will require in your business and call with this list at the War Production Board, 17 Court St., Boston. This office has a man designated to talk with veterans. He will be glad to help you and give information on priority applications. Certain materials are still very scarce for civilian business, and high ratings and priority are needed, even though applicant is a veteran.

Q—Will a discharged veteran, who previous to the war held a civil service position, be able to go to college and still hold his civil service rating? M. S., Cambridge.

A—There is a question on that. If under G.I. Bill and serviceman was under 25 at time of enlistment and attends college after discharge, he will not maintain civil service rating. Must apply for old job within 30 days following discharge. If arrangements are made with civil service officials to hold position open for a further period, that would be another matter.

Q—My husband has been a member of the Seabees for two years. I have been only collecting allotment for six months. Would I be able to collect for any back payments? H. S., Boston.

A—Suggest you contact husband and find out when he first filed application for your allotment, and whether deductions were being made monthly from his pay during the period prior to your receiving first allotment check. If deduction was made, that is a matter to take up with Office of Dependency and Benefits.

Q—My husband was killed in Germany and his personal effects have been sent to the Quartermaster Depot in Missouri. I would like to know whether I must write for them or will they send them to me? R. L., Brockton.

A—The personal effects which are recovered and identified are returned through the Army Effects Bureau, Kansas City Quartermaster Depot, Kansas City, Mo., where they are inventoried, packaged, and sent to the next of kin of our deceased servicemen. It is not necessary for you to write for them.

Q—I am a widower with two sons in the service. I receive Family Allowance from both. I have started to work for 55 cents an hour. Should I report this to the Office of Dependency Benefits? E. S. L., Worcester.

A—Yes, it should be reported. Family Allowance is paid to parent of a serviceman only when the fact of dependency exists. That officer will determine whether or not you are still entitled to receive payment from both sons.

OUT of a total of 158 former Elevated Employees released to date from the Armed Forces, 151 have elected to return to their old jobs with the Boston Elevated Railway! Only 7 out of these 158 returned veterans have chosen other occupations.

The Boston Elevated Railway is gratified that its employees rate it a good company to work for and extends a hearty welcome to its returning fighters.

There's another reason, too, why we're glad they look upon their jobs with the "El" as good jobs to come back to. Our manpower losses, plus the current difficulties in obtaining enough replacements to our operating force, coupled with heavy riding, have resulted in overcrowding of passengers during rush hours. This wartime congestion can be improved only by a continued enlistment of returning veterans and others in the "Blue Uniform Force"—to perform a service vital to the riding public.

Canning Tips

By MARTHA LEE

ONE OF THE FIRST THINGS to remember when you start canning is to use fruits and vegetables while they're fresh. Put up only firm, ripe fruit, and young, tender vegetables. No canning magic exists that will bring old, tough beets or snap beans back to youth again. Neither will canning improve hard, green fruit, nor bruised or overripe fruit or tomatoes.

Work quickly and enlist the help of the family to speed the journey of produce from garden to counter. Foods wilt and toughen and lose their vitamins and fresh flavors when held too long.

Count the canning time accurately, and lose no time in removing jars of fruits or tomatoes from the boiling water bath. With a pressure canner, used for canning non-acid vegetables, follow carefully the directions for opening canner, then take the jars out promptly.

STRING BEANS

Wash, string and cut into convenient lengths. Precook for three minutes. Pack into clean jars to within 1/2 inch from top of jar. Add 1/2 tsp. salt to each pint jar if desired. Fill jar to within 1/2 inch of top with water in which beans were precooked, or boiling water. Wipe sealing surface clean; put on cap, screwing band firmly tight. Process in pressure cooker 40 minutes at 10 pounds; or in water bath 180 minutes.

TOMATOES

Scald tomatoes in boiling water 1 minute. Soak in cold water 1 minute—peel, core, quarter and pack into clean jars. Add no water. Add teaspoon salt to each quart jar if desired. Put on screwing band firmly tight. Process in pressure cooker 55 minutes at 5 pounds, or in hot water bath for 35 minutes.

BABY BEETS

Select young, tender beets preferably of the turnip-shaped varieties. Trim off the tops but leave on at least 1 inch of the stems and all of the roots to prevent bleeding. Wash thoroughly and scald in boiling water to steam for about 15 minutes until the skins slip easily. After the beets are skinned and trimmed, pack into the containers, add 1 tsp. salt to each quart, and fill with hot water. Process for 35 minutes in pressure at 10 pounds pressure for quart jars.

PEACHES (COLD PACK)

Select ripe firm peaches, remove pits. If any pits are found in to stand several minutes before packing, drop it into slightly salted water to prevent discoloration. Drain. Pack, halved or sliced, into clean jars. Fill to within 1 1/2 inches of top with medium syrup. Put on cap, screwing band firmly tight. Process in hot water bath for 20 minutes. Peaches can be canned without removing peel. Wash thoroughly, halve, pack and add syrup. Process same as peeled peaches.

MEDIUM SYRUP

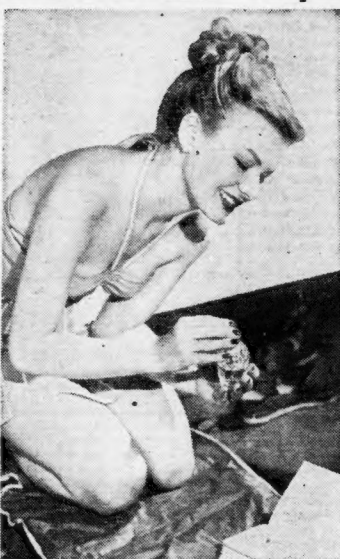

Medium syrups are generally used on peaches, sour berries, acid fruits, as rhubarb, cherries, gooseberries, etc. To make it use 2 parts of water or fruit juice to one part of sugar and bring to a boil. If you would prefer to use corn syrup instead of sugar, use 2 cups water, and 1 cup of corn syrup or honey. Bring to a boil.

Store jars after canning in a cool dark place. Warmth and light tend to increase the loss of vitamins, and color as well.

Use during the current year. Longer storage is not unsafe, if foods are properly canned, sealed airtight, and stored well. But canned foods decrease in quality and food value as time goes on. A good food plan calls for empty jars, ready to be refilled when each new canning season rolls around.

Beauty

TO LOOK your prettiest every day . . . at work or at play . . . keep a facial coolness and repose with an ideal foundation that performs near-magical things for the complexion . . . in dressing it up for the youthful look so precious to women, both young and old. The American look has now become a way of life . . . and every woman owes it to herself to be as fresh in street garb as this model appears in her next-to-nature garb.

My Day

NEW YORK, Monday—On my way up to Hyde Park on the train the other evening two sailors sat nearby, talking to a young girl. A third one sat with me and told me they were on their way to Yonkers to call for some girls and take them back to a dance in New York.

When the sailors got off, the young girl came over to talk to me and made a remark which I think many people will appreciate.

"They're inventing a new language," she said. "They explain it to you as they talk. They told me they were going to get some chicks to go to the dance, and then said, 'Of course, we mean girls.'"

Anyone who talks much to men in the services knows that, just as in the last war, they have invented names and expressions. As this war has lasted longer than the other one, these new words and expressions may become part of our permanent language!

I WONDER as I watch young people such as these—both soldiers and civilians—whether they ever think of the great responsibility that is going to rest upon them, not only to know each other in this country from east to west and north to south, but to know each other throughout the world.

There is one organization which is preparing the children of the future to carry this responsibility. Youth Builders was started by Sabra Holbrook some years ago and has gradually grown in importance.

Not long ago they held a conference of 34 schools in New York City at which children reported on "actual jobs which they had done to increase civic cooperation among all groups in order to meet common needs in the neighborhood."

It is common knowledge among people who work with children that no racial prejudices are born in us. They are

Accents of Pique Approved

By BETTINA BEDWELL

ACCENTS to that summer suit that you wear when you want to be dressed up may be pique and be all the better for that. That is what the fashion folk say.

Pique has not always been famous for being dressy, but when it gets the kind of treatment it is getting this summer, there is nothing more glamorous. White pique details are given encrustations of jet embroidery and that is what makes them so grand.

One such set of costume details from Arpad is sketched. This is a crownless hat, a halter blouse and gloves. They are all made of white pique and trimmed with black sparkle, which makes a line around the hat and is embroidered flowers on the halter waist.

The hat is merely a halo crown that ties at the back of the neck in a soft knot. The pique gloves are untrimmed.

Superb Make-Up Film

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE
Beauty and Fashion Editor

IT'S WONDERFUL to be young, look young, feel young . . . and we who see the years slip quickly by more and more realize the intrinsic worth of such a cliché. If we're smart we do everything within our power to hold onto precious youth . . . to employ all the artifices at our command to combat the ravages of time . . . and to emerge as fresh and youthful as the young American with her hair flying in the breeze and her uninhibited personality.

Too often the woman reaching the "life begins at 40" age . . . reaches out for the theatricalism of makeup with an eager clutch for the remnants of her passing youth. But that is wrong. Theatrically overdone make-up makes a woman look even older . . . it is unreal . . . and it shrieks like through a megaphone "look at me . . . I'm getting older but I don't want to." But do as the young girls do . . . use a soft facial veil . . . not a harsh one.

PROTECTS YOUR SKIN

Have you discovered what miraculous things a good make-up foundation will do for you? Over your skin and under your powder it lies . . . a sheer, soft veil to protect your aging skin from wind and sun and soot . . . to hold your powder evenly and smoothly . . . literally to cover imperfections. Yes, a good foundation . . . properly applied . . . makes your complexion appear always fresh, dewy and radiant. That's why the young girls have taken foundations to their hearts and faces with such astounding and overwhelming success. It enhances their youthful look. It can bring out the youthful glow of an older countenance.

Here is a beautifying make-up film . . . of smooth, luscious creamy consistency . . . to make your skin appear lovelier. Superior ingredients and scientific skill have been employed here to perfect a foundation that specifically . . . 1—smooths the skin and prepares it to hold make-up . . . 2—conceals minor blemishes . . . 3—lends the skin a fresh, dewy look. Even in the hands of a novice . . . its application results in a prettier complexion . . . a magical transformation.

For the name of this beautifying make-up film of creamy consistency, phone the Beauty Dept., Liberty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening Herald, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

acquired as children live with adults who have prejudices, racial and religious.

TWO RECENT BOOKS have come to me which both adults and children will enjoy.

One is the photographic record of the Springfield plan, in which many of us become deeply interested.

This book, with photographs by Alexander Alland and text by James Waterman Wise, is a contribution to the spreading of knowledge about an experiment which seems to be achieving very beneficial results.

One quotation from the text is worth repeating to ourselves over and over: "Democracy is people—living together as equals."

The other book is in the New World Neighbors series. Its particular volume is called "Pioneers of Puerto Rico." Both the pictures and the text can be easily understood by a child of 8, but will be interesting to older children as well.

PRAISE FOR GOOD MEN

THE MEMBERS of the Massachusetts Legislature whose votes made possible the appropriation of $15,000,000 for the Port of Boston deserve all the praise their grateful constituents can give them.

These Senators and Representatives have served the State and its major city in a most commendable manner.

They have opened the way for a new era of growth and prosperity.

They have protected the jobs and wages of thousands of people.

They have provided abundant employment opportunities for thousands of others.

They have given the nation and world convincing evidence that the Government of Massachusetts is fully aware of its responsibilities and thoroughly able to discharge them.

They should be remembered and rewarded.

R. PETER J. JORDAN, who filed the petition for the port's renovation, won the admiration of the whole State.

He led the fight honestly and honorably. He stated the Commonwealth's needs eloquently and effectively.

He made new friends, not only for Boston, but for all the surrounding cities and towns.

When the improved port gives us our rightful share of trade and commerce, we should all reserve a substantial part of our gratitude for Peter Jordan and the Representatives who stood with him.

Arthur W. Coolidge, president of the Senate, and Frederick B. Willis, speaker of the House, worked with like enthusiasm for the port legislation.

It is hardly an exaggeration to say that hope for the bigger Boston and the better Massachusetts would have been lost if the people lacked the good leadership of Senator Coolidge and Representative Willis.

Thirty Senators proved worthy of their districts' confidence by voting to revive and re-institute the port.

They are Senators Albetti of Webster, Bowen of Newton, Callahan of Salem, Champit of Springfield, Condora of Pittsfield, Cusson of Haverhill, Faulkner of Somerville, Flanagan of Lawrence, Grant of Fall River, Haley of Rensselaer, Hogan of Lynn, Holmes of Weymouth, Innes of Boston, Johnson of Clinton, Lee of Boston, Lerche of Northampton, Loughlin of Worcester, Mackay of Quincy, Mahar of Orange, Miles of Brockton, Montminy of Lowell, Murphy of Boston, Nicholson of Wareham, Nolan of Holyoke, Ormsbee of Rayham, Price of New Bedford, Richardson of Winchester, Stanton of Fitchburg, Sullivan of Boston and Taylor of Boston.

Not present during the vote, Senators Olson of Ashland, Conley of Chelsea, Peckham of Wellesley, Bowers of Brookline and Furbush of Waltham later recorded themselves as favoring the bill.

UNFORTUNATELY, fourteen members of the House stood out against the port bill, which other legislators and the people as a whole regard as vitally essential.

The fourteen are:

Representatives Allen of Brookline, Bigelow of Brookline, Casey of Pittsfield, Connolly of Jamaica Plain, Dooley of Taunton, Doyle of Worcester, Foster of Somerville, Howard of Westminster, Johnson of Worcester, Loring of Worcester, McCarthy of Somerville, Telford of Plainville, Wondolowski of Worcester, and Woods of Easton.

Happily, the opposition failed.

Thanks to the public-spirited men and organizations; to the leaders of labor, industry, banking and business, and to the ability of the majority of the law-makers to put statesmanship above all other considerations, Boston may once more take its place among the great seaports of the world.

Of course, much remains to be done in the year ahead.

Piers and docks must be built, harbor facilities brought up to date and programs calculated to attract trade must be adopted.

14—Boston American, July 17

"I HOPE (to see) a cordial fraternization among all the American nations and... their coalescing in an American system of policy totally independent of and unconnected with that of Europe. The day is not distant when we may formally require a meridian of partition through the ocean which separates the two hemispheres, on the hither side of which no European gun shall ever be heard, nor an American on the other... I hope no American patriot will ever lose sight of the essential policy of interdicting in the seas and territories of both Americas the ferocious and sanguinary contests of Europe.

"... Our first and fundamental maxim should be never to entangle ourselves in the broils of Europe. Our second, never to suffer Europe to intermeddle with cis-Atlantic affairs."

However, Gunpowder was the name of the horse Ichabod

Crane rode in Washington Irving's

MARRIAGE: Ninety-five percent of women marry for the first time before the age of 25, according to the most recent statistics. The right age for a woman to marry is said to be when she is a little over 22... The victory garden movement developed a lot of new garden enthusiasts. So if you can think of a gadget or product that would be popular with gardeners you will do all right.

PLEASE NOTE: When a girl tries to do the leading when dancing she is a poor matrimonial prospect. It is likely she will try to dominate her husband. The girl who keeps chattering during a dance is probably no more a matrimonial bargain either.

As a wife, she will probably have the habit of always talking too much when her husband wants her to keep quiet. For example, while he is reading the sports page she will start telling him her household troubles. Or while he is listening to Rise Stevens on the radio she will start yelping questions at him from another room. And so on.

HORSES & WOMEN: Note it stated the reason so many women go hatless at all seasons of the year is because they could no longer stand the fun their husbands and sweethearts made of their hairdo.

Our Horses & Women experts doubt this claim. They say the average woman does not care how much fun a man makes of a hat. In fact, they would rather he made fun of a new hat than ignored it altogether. It seems probable the hair stylists have something to do with the decline in the purchasing of hats by females.

The hair-do experts seem to have originated a lot of styles that make many women look better without a hat than with one.

PASSING BY: Gloria Swanson. Recently sued for separation from her fifth husband. I believe the Hollywood record for number of husbands is jointly held by Gloria and Dorothy Lee, each having made five trips to the altar.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1935, by King Features, Inc.

NEW YORK, July 17—Yesterday these dispatches revealed activities of the Buchanan advertising agency, which employed Harry Hopkins' son, David, in offering Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt to the Pan-

American Coffee Bureau as a radio attraction at $1000 a week and the agency's proposal to make full use of the governmental agencies created by her husband.

The money to pay Mrs.

Roosevelt came from the treasuries of Brazil and eight other Latin-American nations. Some collected from their coffee growers an export tax of five cents a bag for this purpose. Others took it straight out of their national treasuries.

In view of Mrs. Roosevelt's denial, whether naive or artful, that she was thus commercializing the White House, there should be interest in the opinion of North American coffee men who objected and withdrew from a sales campaign in which they collaborated with the Latin-

Americans.

One of these men explained that the Latin-

Americans distinctly believed that because the wife of the President was thus to be hired, the President, himself, must be "in on it," too.

The campaign was not a spectacular success,

however, and when it was over the Latin-Americans and the National Coffee Ass'n, composed of North American coffee merchants, resumed their old straight co-operation without unusual political involvements.

Mrs. Betty Lindley represented Mrs. Roosevelt in negotiating the radio job.

The Dies Committee obtained some records from a bank in a small New Jersey town and the office of this long inquiry into subversive activities reported that these documents showed that

Mrs. Lindley received 10 per cent of Mrs. Roosevelt's radio checks as her fee and made disbursement from the account to those purposes which have been described as Mrs. Roosevelt's "charities."

The office force of the Dies Committee believed that some of these "charities" were of the type which Earl Browder had described as

"transmission belts" and "fronts" for Communism.

THE DIES COMMITTEE further discovered

the name of Mrs. Betty Lindley on public pay-rolls of the National Youth Administration and the Social Security Administration, in which

Mrs. Roosevelt was strongly influential, for varying periods, part of the time at $3600 a year and at other times on a per diem ranging up to $22.

Robert Stripling, the chief investigator for the Dies Committee, and J. B. Matthews, who became its chief informant on Communist organizations and personalities, inquired further and declared this Mrs. Betty Lindley to be the wife

Reading the other day about the organization of the Blind Veterans' Association, an independent, courageous organization of sightless men, it occurred to me that it might be a fine thing if some how we civilian men, incidentally, they are asking nothing—could find a way to provide every blinded veteran of this war with a personal dictograph machine.

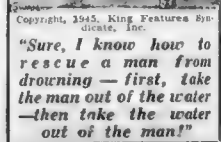

There are approximately 1200 blind veterans to date, and there will be more. None of them, in their own words, wants to be relegated to "making whiskbrooms and baskets." Before they went into the service of their country they were 1200 ordinary and in some cases smarter than ordinary young men who had the usual and varying ambitions to be found in any group that size. Some of them wanted to be writers and some wanted to be engineers and some wanted to be policemen or firemen or taxi drivers or school teachers or sculptors or paperhangers or clerks in banks.

Now that they are suffering from one of the saddest handicaps of all they still have varying ambitions. It seems to me that in all instances the latest and best technological developments should be used for our disabled, and in the case of the blind I can think of nothing more helpful and time-saving and assurance-giving than the most modern type of dictaphone.

FOR THE BOY who would have used a typewriter in his work normally, a dictaphone would be priceless. For the blinded boy no matter what the job he is holding—and the chief purpose of the BVA is to act as a clearing house for jobs—being able to dictate things, instead of writing them down, would be a great blessing. After all, a boy who has used his two good eyes all his life does not learn overnight to write in the dark.

Members of the BVA will neither ask nor accept contributions, but surely if enough interest were aroused some arrangement could be made, possibly by the dictaphone companies themselves, to see that one of the latest and best of these implements is available for every blinded veteran as his personal property to facilitate his employment wherever he goes.

those dazzling technicolored magazine layouts involving pictures of servicemen relaxing at home, kissing their girls under the spell of an exotic perfume or greeting the family in a railroad terminal.

When the war was young, the boys almost invariably were dressed as officers, and more often than not officers in the Air Corps.

But within recent months, a new trend has arrived on the slick pages, and non-commissioned men are discernible in even the most plush ads.

I have seen a Marine sergeant pictured recently, as well as an infantry private and an artillery corporal.

Washington Scene

Distributed by King Features Synd., Inc.

WASHINGTON, July 17—Our almost brand new Secretary of Labor, Judge Lewis B. Schwel-lenbach, was unanimously turned down in one of Washington's most notable organizations, the exclusive Post Mortem Club.

The black-balling of Judge Schwel-lenbach was in a new record set by Col. J. Monroe Johnson, director of the Office of Defense Transportation.

Assisting gallantly in putting the slug on the new Labor Secretary was Watson B. Miller, Deputy Federal Security Administrator; Col. Paul Griffith, recently resigned Administrative Assistant at Selective Service, and Col. Lemuel Bolles, now engaged in liquidating the last of the old Office of Civilian Defense.

The Post Mortem Club is not made up of autopsy-fanciers but past national officers of the American Legion. Its meetings are conducted along somewhat novel lines—as Judge Schwel-lenbach discovered.

Like all other suckers—I mean prospective members—he was given a great build-up. He was invited to a session by Col. Johnson, who said the membership wished to honor him as a great American.

Various speakers lauded him to the skies. Then Col. Griffith arose and proposed him for membership.

Deputy Federal Security Administrator Miller, who is president of the club, seconded the nomination, whereupon Col. Johnson pretended to fly into a rage.

"You can't second him," he howled at the seemingly dumb-founded Miller. "You don't have any rights here! You're only the president!"

Miller pretended to apologize, saying, "I'm sorry, I forgot."

★ ★ ★
BY THIS TIME, Judge Schwel-lenbach was well-baffled. He relaxed momentarily when Col. Griffith got up again and began a spirited harangue in his defense, but complacency waned when the members started booing everything his defender said.

Finally a vote on the application was taken—and every member voted against it.

Whereupon Col. Johnson turned to the flabbergasted Judge Schwel-lenbach and said:

"You have been unanimously rejected. But, perhaps, I should explain that we do everything backwards here. The fact that you have been unanimously rejected means that you are automatically a member of this club!"

Gosh, we have fun in Washington.

A FELLOW came up to me in the National Press Club the other day and handed me a check for $30,500.00.

It was a good check, too. The only trouble was the fellow wanted it back. It seems he was only letting me look at it.

The check was brought here from Puerto Rico in a plain manila envelope by Corp. Ismael Ramirez, who traveled without guard. It's to buy war bonds for the Puerto Rico government.

HOLLYWOOD, July 17—Dana Andrews, who was in and then out of the Army before you could say "Jack Robinson" because of the age limit, moves his make-up box to Universal for Walter Wanger.

Walter has waited a long time to get the actor he wanted for "Canyon Passage," the Ernest Haycox story, and Dana is it. He was borrowed from Sam Goldwyn, whose turn it is to have Dana next. Twentieth had him last time. They share his contract.

I met Walter and Joan Bennett dining. It was Walter's birthday. He had had a wonderful day, for among his presents was a beautiful painting of 2-year-old Stephanie, the apple of his eye and the pride of the Wanger home. Stephanie came to the studio to lunch with her proud papa. She left his table and went over and shook hands with all the producers. "You can see," said Walter, "what she has in her mind. She wants to be an actress."

A LINE OR TWO: Am very proud to say Former Postmaster Frank Walker has sent me one of the series of four memorial stamps honoring Franklin D. Roosevelt. This stamp symbolizes Roosevelt the President and is of the three-cent denomination. . . . Gene Fowler has made up his mind to produce "Goodnight, Sweet Prince" himself. Now he is looking for a company to film it. The proceeds are to go to establish beds for sick actors and newspapermen—an idealistic idea, for newspapermen and actors often die poor.

MEMBERS OF THE Army Air Forces wear wings as insignia but the various branches, sections, ranks, etc., have additional identifying marks on their wings.

For instance, a senior pilot is distinguished from a pilot by a star on a shield. A command pilot has a wreath around the star. A glider pilot has a "G," a bombardier, a downward-pointing bomb; navigator, a globe with navigational lines, flight surgeon, caduceus, and a flight engineer, a radial engine.

Recently, however, some gasser had a batch of wings made up with a miniature swivel chair on the shield. This was to signify a pentagon pilot of the "Chairborne Command."

Everybody thought it was riotously funny, particularly Col. Bill Westlake of Public Relations. He removed his command pilot wings to try on the new swivel chair insignia.

Just then the phone rang, and Col. Westlake's secretary said: "General Arnold wants to see you right away, sir."

Forgetting all about his new decoration, Col. Westlake hurried to the august presence of Gen. H. H. Arnold, top man of the Army Air Forces. Soon he became uncomfortably aware that Gen. Arnold was subjecting his chest to stern scrutiny. With horror he recalled the gag insignia.

He didn't feel any better to see Gen. Arnold scowling, because, when Arnold scowls, it usually means a great deal of trouble for somebody. In this instance Col. Westlake had a distinct premonition it would be him.

Stumbling and stammering he tried to explain. In the midst of it Gen. Arnold threw back his head and guffawed. "That's very clever," the general gasped. "And furthermore you can tell the originator I laughed like hell!"

Double Murder Tip Wins

A Salem citizen, alert to the opportunities for helping the family budget through awards made each week by the Record-American-Advertiser Tip Editor, last week hopped to a phone in Peabody and called in the first tip on a mute prizefighter shooting his wife and child. His reward was the week's first prize of $10.

A man from Concord and another from Warwick, R. I., eager to share in the awards, called Liberty 4000 and yesterday checks for $5 each were in the mails to them—the Concord man for a tip on a plane crash in which five were killed and the R. I. man for a tip and picture on a trailer truck crashing a bridge to kill one man—pictures are frequently rewarded equally with news tips.

Three persons shared $3 awards—a girl from Peabody who phoned a tip on a vacation tragedy; a Lincoln girl who gave a tip on a plane crash that killed five there, and a Fall River man who phoned a tip on a $500,000 Somerset fire.

Tips on a Wilmington icehouse fire and a child killed by a flying tire rim brought other Record-American readers $2 each.

Seventeen others were awarded $1 each for calls on such items as a Nahant rescue, a boy falling through an East Boston skylight, a near tragedy at a Weston crossing, a Medford man picked up for questioning in a death probe.

Tip on a picture possibility in a goat giving birth to four kids, a South End auto accident, a South Boston car accident, an East Boston jeep accident, a man collapsing in a downtown street, a bus hitting a Saugus pole, an auto rolling down a hill, a Wakefield fire, an Allston auto crash.

Picture of a woman painting the house while her GI husband is at war, a meat line at Wellesley Hills, and a fire in Everett.

SAN DIEGO, Cal., July 16 (AP)—"By golly, 14 is right! Must have just lost count!" said Roman L. Springer, 50, seaman first class, today at Camp Kearney as he re-counted his family, described as the largest belonging to a service man in this war.

Mrs. Springer, 40, in Winona Minn., corrected Papa Springer after he had contradicted her last week by saying, "Fourteen ain't right! I've only got 13!" Today the record was straight as both parents agreed.

HOLD THOSE FLOWERS FOR THE PRINCE TO SEE. I WANT TO SEE IF WE GOT ALL THE MUDD OUT OF HIS EYE.

GOOD. HIS VISION IS PERFECTLY CLEAR. NOW TO CHECK HIS SPEAKER.

STEIGLER PRODS HIS VOICE INTO THE 'PRINCE' AND CONTROLS HIM BY RADIO.

5-Leaf Better

PEORIA, Ill., July 17 (AP) —Mrs. Lee Bennett went into a clever patch on Friday the 13th and found four four-leaf clovers and one with five leaves.

The wish she made on the five-leafed clover was that a farm neighbor, Mrs. Fred Velpel, would hear from her soldier son, Fred.

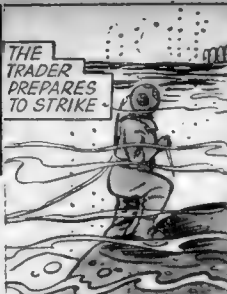

Next day, Mrs. Velpel told Mrs. Bennett she had received a letter from her son, the first in six months.

Here We Go Again; As Gullible as Ever

By AUSTEN LAKE

THE WAR IN EUROPE IS OVER! But lend-lease goes gayly on! Our ships continue to pour vast quantities of food, machinery and goods into Russia, England, France and liberated neutral nations. We call it "lend-lease." But the bulk of the stuff is neither "lent" nor "leased."

Austen Lake

It is a deed of free gift from the altruistic Uncle Sam and paid out of the U. S. taxpayer's purse, while the same tax-groggy wage earner struggles to find nourishment and livabilities in the calory-low, high-ratioed, scarce and expensive home markets.

Washington's ledgers on lend-lease are not open to the public. No complete, up-to-date audit is released by our State Department to show the people how their money is spent on give-away goods. All we ever get is occasional lump-sum figures in billions, or piecemeal glimmerings from the Congressional Record, which few citizens subscribe to and fewer read. I predict that when, some future day, the complete lend-lease report is made public you're going to hear the goshawfullest screech in U. S. history!

Lately, Rep. Albert Engel of Michigan told Congress that, at war's end, "this nation will have a national debt of THREE HUNDRED BILLION DOLLARS."

Come scholars! Raise your hands! How many know what a billion is. Well, if we saved one buck every clock-tick since the first World War started in 1914, we'd just about have a billion dollars, or 9000 years to save $300,000,000,000, which represents a per capita sum of $2272 for every American man, woman and child. How many family heads have that kind of dough? It makes this writer's personal portion of the postwar debt $9068 for his family's four folk. And I haven't got that kind of scratch!

Here They Come Again!

IN THE JULY 6 ISSUE OF the Congressional Record Senator Brewster of Maine says that foreign governments, including Russia, France, England, Belgium and lesser et ceteras are asking us for TWENTY BILLION DOLLARS in post-war loans and stand a good chance of getting it. In the same issue Senator Taft of Ohio remarks, "From our experience after the last World War we know that war loans, of which more than FOUR BILLIONS were incurred after the armistice, were completely repudiated."

We've had one pretty sour experience there! The combined debts of 13 borrowing nations amounted to $9,811,084,094 without computing interest up to the time (1932) we quit trying to collect. The nations said they couldn't, or wouldn't, pay. And they didn't, with one exception—Finland! And they tossed in such epithets as "Uncle Shylock" and "Dollar Imperialists." Remember?

But that's so much wind through the apple orchard now! Who paid those debts? Why none other than the dear old U. S. taxpayer himself. Oh yes he did, and I can prove it! Europe got the cash! We held the empty bag! And now come the same nations begging more U. S. war loans! And what do they offer as collateral? Their gentleman's word to pay! Fancy that!

So here we are in the same old gullible groove on the verge of lending more astronomical sums into foreign coffers without sanction from the American masses who have to foot the bill. And here we are, too, each family man staggering under a spine-cracking tax load. Soon 11,000,000 returning soldiers will have to be cared for with bonuses, GI money grants, hospitalization and rehabilitation. The outlook is for much-reduced taxable incomes, larger government unemployment insurance, new WPA projects—all during the critical conversion period while war industry retools for private enterprise.

We Are Always Ready to Oblige

NOW COMES FRANCE, ACCORDING to Brewster, asking for THREE BILLION DOLLARS. What security? None! What concessions? Hear Brewster on the subject, "Is it unconscionable for us to ask (France) that we shall be permitted to use a $25,000,000 aircraft which we built with our own money to save the country in question and civilization as well, when they are asking us for three billion dollars?"

I think every thoughtful American must agree that we have been a splendid sucker nation for foreign skulduggery and avarice since 1918. Being banker to the world on sound banking principle is one thing! But being a credulous charity institution for indigent, ungrateful and non-paying neighbors is another! What kind of charity is it that consumes the benefactor?

Here's a fair specimen of our come-easy-go-fast suckerism. In the Congressional Record of July 6 (Senate: p. 3394-5) Sen. Mc Mahon asks, "Tell me who set up the rate of exchange for our troops in France?" He refers to the larcenously low 50-franc-to-the-dollar pegged as the exchange rate for our AEF soldiers, when the actual buying power of the franc among French civilians was 150 to 200 francs to the dollar. That was the established "change rate" allowed openly on the Paris black money market. And that was the basis on which French goods were priced. So our guys were obliged to accept one-third to one-fourth the real value of their invasion dough.

Sen. Kilgore answered—"The franc was artificially fixed at 2c each because the French stated they desired to stabilize their franc at that rate, 50-to-the-dollar. It was set by the State Department and Treasury officials." In other words our accommodating State and Treasury officials granted France the right to establish the pay-rate of our troops at a cheat figure of 50-to-the-dollar instead of the indicated 180. Did France then keep her pledge to stabilize her franc at a 2c parity with ours? She did not! She allowed her black markets to run wild and rampant with no attempt at restraint, while she drew full dollar credits from Washington for every invasion dollar we printed. So there we are, clutching the old empty sack again!

All any American citizen asks to be informed by what Lincoln once called the Government "Of the people, by the people, and for the people" what Lend-Lease is doing with our money. After all it's OURS, not Washington's.

By HUCK FINNEGAN

FENWAY PARK, July 17—This Cleveland club which closed a three-game series with the Red Sox here today is the most improved of all A. L. entries since the campaign opened.

In April and early May, Lou Boudreau was at wit's end trying to replace third baseman Ken Keltner and second baseman Ray Mack, both of whom had entered the service. He had tried Wheeler, Chiocki, even Cullenbine, at third base without success. Second base, too, was porous.

Miraculously, he engineered a trade which sent Cullenbine to Detroit in exchange for third baseman Don Ross and second baseman Dutch Meyer. That was a fine break for the Indians. So, too, was it for Detroit, which needed a long-distance hitter badly.

Catching, too, was a weak spot. Buddy Rosar wouldn't report, and the Indians were experimenting with Jim Stienner, MacDonnell and other first-year men. Now they pulled another fast one.

They shipped Rosar to the A's and obtained Frank Hayes in return. To climax it all, Jeff Heath reported and started hitting the ball in mid-season form.

Now with Felix Mackiewicz rapidly approaching stardom in center field, the Indians are as tough to beat as any club in the league.

Recently they closed a 12-8 home stand, taking two out of three from New York, and are even-Stephen in two games with the Sox.

Today they sent Steve Gromek (10-5) against Jim Wilson (5-5) of the Sox.

FOURTH INNING

Braves Show Flashes Of Inspired Ball Club

By JACK CONWAY

COL. DAVE EGAN and other eminent sports columnists have been comparing Bob Coleman's 1945 Braves with George Stallings' miracle club of 1914 which won the National League pennant and then knocked off the Athletics in four straight games in the World Series. After reading the results of the Braves double-header with the Cardinals in St. Louis on Sunday, I believe that the Colonel and his various supporting majors, captains and second loaves know that they are writing about.

Bob Coleman

Our only regret is that the Braves do not play the Cardinals more often. These National League schedule makers should have shown more consideration for Bob Coleman and to youthful John Quinn who is doing such a bang-up job as general manager. The schedule maker should not have booked a single game for the Braves with the Cubs. Instead he should have had the Tribe play the Cardinals twice as often as they have. I believe that, with such a program Col. Tom Sullivan would have to have special police details to handle the crowds at National League Park when the Braves are at home, and that the lines would already be forming in place application for World Series tickets.

These schedule makers, however, are individuals who lack the milk of human kindness. They have ice water in their veins and they book the Braves with the Cubs when even a bat boy knows that Coleman's outfit have always had an inferiority complex when in the same ball park with members of the bear family. Maybe it would be otherwise if members of the Braves had attended more circuses when they were younger.

The St. Louis Cardinals, world champions in their own right, have been a soft touch for the Braves. They have been as easy for the Tribe as Johnny Paycheck and his class of heavyweights were for Joe Louis when he was tossing lethal bombs.

Have Winning Punch

"THE 1945 Braves have a winning punch. Tommy Holmes certainly gave it to them. Since Holmes started his sensational batting spurge, I note that Gilenwater, Workman, Culler and other members of the Tribe are also bumping the agate against the outfield fences.

The 1914 Braves had the same habit. Once an ordinary ball club started to click it rode riotously over the elite of the National League. It made even the haughty New York Giants look like stumble bumps.

Johnny Evers at second base with George Stallings as manager were the human sparks that lifted the 1914 Braves from last place and made them world's champions. Fred Mitchell was Stallings' "right eye," while Rabbit Maranville at shortstop, "Butch" Schmidt at first, "Red" Smith and Chuck Deal at third, Hank Gowdy behind the bat and Dick Rudolph, Bill James, Tyler and Stand in the box.

Stallings had an interchangeable outfield. Against right handed enemy pitchers he used left handed hitters—Joey Connolly, Larry Gilbert and Herb Moran. Facing southpaws he shot in right handed batters—George Whitted, Ted Cather and Les Mann.

Ball clubs win pennants all these times because they play over their own heads. Ordinary players when in the clutch prove stars. When Evers was forced out of the lineup for a time in 1914, Eddie Fitzsimmons, a utility second baseman, played one of the greatest games of ball ever witnessed in Boston.

In the World Series against the Athletics, Schmidt broke the heart of Connie Mack's men when he dove into the dugout, caught a foul ball, and doubled a runner at third. When caught off second base, Chuck Deal raced to third base and was safe, and then scored a vital run.

Winning ball clubs do things that way. No obstacle is too big for them to clear.

Pitching Star Help

GEORGE STALLINGS proved that great pitchers could work every third day. The trio of Rudolph, James and Tyler pitched the Braves to the National League pennant and to the world's championship with Strand filling in occasionally.

It is expected that the Braves will get better pitching for the remainder of the season. Nate Andrews is back in top form, while Al Javery did a good job when he stepped in as a relief flinger on Saturday.

It is hoped that Art Cooper's injured arm will respond to treatment. He will be invaluable to the Tribe if at his best.

Hutchings has also pitched some amazingly good baseball. The Braves are strong in batting and in fielding. Let their pitchers stand up for them, and Col. Egan and the members of hislerary staff may have an 1945 showing of how the 1914 Braves went to town.

Navy Yard Has Flag Prospects

With Bob Fulton, the Dick Casey Club ace chucker set to enter the armed forces within a short time, the Navy Yard A. A. League got off from the Dorchester outfit for the first time in six years are considerably brightened.

Today the Caseys will attempt to enlarge their lead over the second place Navy Yarders when they take on the Hal Crosby Club at the Fens Stadium. Meanwhile, the Navy Yarders will travel to the South Boston Stadium where they will meet the Linehan Club, present tenants of third place.

The McCarthy Club and Hicks Engineers will renew hostilities again at Healy Field in Roslindale in the other game set for tonight.

Holmes Leads By 21 Points

NEW YORK, July 17 (AP)—Tommy Holmes of the Boston Braves and Tony Cuccinello of the Chicago White Sox still topped their respective leagues in hitting today as the season entered the 14th week of its 24-week stretch.

Holmes' consecutive hitting streak was snapped at 37 games but his .392 average, including games of Sunday, assured him of a 21-point lead in the National League over Phil Cavarretta of the Chicago Cubs, who was batting .371.

Cuccinello was still getting stiff competition from George Case of Washington, but had pulled away by a five-point margin at .329 as the Senators' base-stealing leader dropped to .324.

Only six American Leaguers were hitting better than .300. Vern Stephens of St. Louis was in third place at .313, and George Starnweiss of New York was fourth at .303. Bob Johnson of Boston, .303, and Roberto Estalella of Philadelphia, .301, completed the 200 class. Other American leaders were Oris Hockett, Chicago, .296; Nick Etten, New York, and George Myatt, Washington, .293, and Hershel Martin, New York, .288.

Braves Feel Effect Of ODT Travel Ban

By BILL GRIMES

ST. LOUIS, July 17—Well, if the general public isn't convinced that the ODT meant business when it cracked down on unessential travel, the Braves are.

In order to get out of here tomorrow for Cincinnati, Duffy Lewis, the Braves' road secretary, had to divide his party into four groups. And, it is going to require three seats in one airplane and three trains on two different roads for the Braves' parties to reach their destination.

With the railroads operating under the supervision of the Office of Defense Transportation, sleeper and pullman reservations are unavailable. The military travel is west but the railroads do not dare to assign even a day coach to an Eastward bound ball club. The Phillies will sit up in day coaches tonight en route here from Cincinnati, if they can find seats.

According to the National League schedule, the Braves should have played a four game in three days series with the Reds on this trip. But, when the ODT decreed that last Sunday was the deadline for Pullman travel of less than 450 miles, the Braves' Reds series was reduced to a two games in one day affair.

The cancelled games will be played on the last western trip, when the Braves have four off days between their final appearance at Crosley Field and their opening game in New York.

Lewis has been so busy since we arrived here that with the exception of three trips to Sportsman's Park, he hasn't left his hotel room. He has arranged for the Braves' band, Pete Herman, "Sparky" Tomassetti and Eli Brenner to leave for Cincinnati by plane at midnight. During the three hour flight, Herman, Tomassetti and Brenner can rehearse "Come On, Braves," the tune they have composed since they've been here.

BIT OF CONFUSION

The rest of the Braves party will make the trip by train. The first group which will include Gen. Mgr. Jack Quinn, Bob Coleman, Duffy Lewis and 18 players, will not out tomorrow morning at 9:30 on the National Limited.

Then, at noon, Chuck Workman, Carden Gilenwater, Nate Andrews and Bill Ramsey will leave on a NYC train to be followed an hour later by Vince Shupe, Lou Eitel, Steve Shemo and Art Weinstock, the Newton High School boy, who is on the trip to catch batting practice.

The Braves will have just as much trouble getting out as they had reaching Cincinnati. General Manager Warren Giles of the Reds agreed to cancel Friday's game so that the Braves could get to Pittsburgh without sitting up.

Unless the U. S. Naval authorities can arrange for the Braves to have a sleeper from Pittsburgh to Syracuse after Tuesday's night games with the Pirates, the exhibition game listed for next Wednesday at the Sampson Naval Station will be called off and the Boston party will go direct to New York.

In the final game of the series tonight, Nate Andrews and "Red" Barrett, the "Boys From Syracuse," will be the starting pitchers. It will be the first time, they have ever opposed each other in a regular game. Andrews and Barrett were together at Syracuse for two years before Bob Quinn brought them up to the Braves in 1943.

Andrews has six wins and seven defeats for the season.

B's-Bums Plan Tripleheader

Plans for a Boston Braves-Brooklyn Dodgers "tripleheader" for Aug. 3 at Boston have been revised, the management announced today.

The management said that plans to play a suspended portion of the June 17 game with the Dodgers prior to a doubleheader on Aug. 3 had been changed.

The suspended portion of the game, which was called in the eighth inning because of a Sunday law, will be completed prior to a single game with the Dodgers on Aug. 4.

The change, the management said, was made with the approval of league officials.
